Feedback Comments

What should he/she stop doing?

He must stop being too direct and assess the business opportunities in front of him by considering some proposals by customers

Putting on an aggressive front towards people on occasions, especially when they are requiring assistance. Although the majority understand him, he can be intimidating at times.

To stop belittling people - especially at the lower levels. Many do not understand Derrick and take it personally. He needs to stop making fun of others that are in bad situations.

Telling people that they are useless at their jobs. Stop being critical of others and putting people down. When an employee has expired stock in the store, he insists that that person must be given a written warning. However, he has stock in his stock room which he allows to expire. He would rather let it expire than give it to people. No repercussions when this happens

He must stop being critical of others at times this can be counter productive as it breaks team moral, he needs to set the example as a leader in the region. i.e walk the talk (e.g) he has a zero tolerance on expired stock in trade and expects warnings to be issued for those that transgress, yet when he mis-manages stock in the region which is often, whereby stock, that could and should have been used to drive the business, continues to expire under his watch - he is not held accountable, this stock expiring is a result of him not being able to exercise any form of compassion /giving to others - and in my opinion borders unethical behaviour, he is a strong and influential leader but this is his biggest weakness and flaw as a leader. Not being able to give to others and being self centered.

Feedback Comments

What should he/she keep doing?

It will be a benefit if he can start to focus more on the business strategy and then delegate tasks with responsibility to reports. It might be beneficial if he can listen a little more to others before making up his own mind especially people reporting to him

He must communicate a bit more

Needs to start having empathy with others.

Working with people in terms of assisting/developing and overcoming work related problems/issues.

Needs to start sharing info with the team to assist the entire team to achieve and not withhold info.

To listen to others and give credit where due.

Being more compassionate and kind. Be more tolerant of others. Stop talking about others

Biggest challenge will be to start giving , share more information, he has a wealth of knowledge and experience and is respected in the region

Feedback Comments

What should he/she keep doing?

Keep inspiring others by his thorough knowledge of the business and the business environment

Continue to have the passion he has for the business.

Nothing

He is brilliant at analysing data, presenting market intel and retaining key information - he has a very competitive nature and needs to keep this as others strive to meet his energy levels.

Being consistent at who they are ,assists his staff in this manner.

He should keep on driving results through strong aggressive implementation as well as manage discipline within his region.
